Past and Future Pole Stars
Thuban at times made a better polestar than our modern Polaris
Various sources claim that Thuban almost exactly pinpointed the position of the north celestial pole in the year 2787 BCE

Polaris - centuries ago was an ordinary star known by the name Phoenice ...it won't match Thuban's precision [0.2 of 1 degree] when it most closely aligns with the north celestial pole on March 24, 2100
Polaris will be 27'09" (0.4525 of 1 degree) from the north celestial pole at that time according to the computational wizard Jean Meeus
